Prot. out 351/C

Subject: Collaboration proposal

Dear Sir / Madame,

Our Institution, Inter Universities Consortium For.Com., would like to collaborate with your organization concerning the empowerment of the patients. We are very interested in the improvement of the prevention and diagnosis of rare diseases, and in ensuring equal access to treatment for all patients throughout Europe.

In the framework of the Programme of Community Action in the Field of Health (2008-2013) – Call 2008, We submitted our project proposal, RA.RE. – RARE diseases REGISTER. The project intended to investigate on three rare diseases areas: improving their codification and classification in the context of the ICD-10 revision; developing and maintaining the register and promoting information network.

Inter Universities Consortium For.Com. is a public, non profit body, established in 1990, recognized by the Italian Ministry of University, Technological and Scientific Research. It develops Open Distance Learning courses such as:

- Masters Courses;
- Postgraduate Courses;
- Vocational Training Courses.

These training paths are delivered through the e-learning platform and they are managed online tutoring activities in order to promote collaborative learning among the remote users.

For.Com. provides courses in various subjects such as the Master in International Medicine (third edition) aimed at training and updating professionals involved in health activities at a national and international level. The master promotes knowledge and skills acquisition to manage activities within International Medical Services. It is a theoretical and practical training course aimed at people operating in the NGOs involved in international cooperation, in contexts of intervention, in institutional areas collaborating with national and international doctors in the emergency contexts.
